“A professional writer is an amateur who didn't quit.” Richard Bach

At any stage in a writing career, lack of guidance, inspiration, input, ideas, and/or accountability can be the difference between taking your manuscript to the finish line or just continuing to talk about it.

Work one-on-one with me to get the input that addresses your specific writing life needs and questions—and direction for taking the next step. I can help with:

- Feedback on your work-in-progress
- Inspiration and motivation
- Creative blocks and the creative process
- Prioritization of projects and time management
- Productivity
- Publishing: self and traditional
- Marketing: including web and social media
- Advice on submissions and agents/publishers
- Confidence in your work
- The routes to market
- Professionalism as a writer

Since 2002, I've been writing, submitting and teaching everything I've learned as I learned it. This has led to incredible progress in all areas of my writing life. Email me to set up a free 15-minute call for how we can work together. steffedwards@live.com
